

Examine your Lifestyle

Are you spending enough quality time with your child?

Children can and do misbehave and argue to gain attention because negative attention is better than no attention.

We live in a hectic society where we have to juggle between work, school and leisure.

It is so easy to forget to spend quality time with children. We all need to make time to enjoy family life.

Time to maybe share a book, build a snowman, to go for a walk or simply time to talk.

It could be that adults need to change their lifestyle to re-connect with their child.

Governments should help you and your parents get together
